

Skills Demystified

THURSDAY 9 FEBRUARY 2012
WSP, 3 WHITE ROSE OFFICE PARK, LEEDS

In response to the issues and concerns raised at our very successful 'Help Shape the Future' event, YCF announces the launch of our new Skills Community of Interest.

A skilled workforce is essential for the future of the UK Chemical Industry; this will enable us to compete in the global marketplace and sustains the sector's future.

With an ageing workforce there is no time like the present to make the most of opportunities available to existing employees and new recruits to ensure that chemical companies have the skills base to move forward.

YCF have brought together a group of speakers to give an insight into what assistance is available to a company wishing to improve their skill base. Combining them with case studies from companies (BASF and Unilever) who are actively engaged with the process and can give hands on accounts of the way they conquered the pitfalls and celebrated the successes of their training programs.

The workshops will analyse and prioritise the issues, needs and barriers companies have encountered together with the outcomes from the Help Shape the Future workshop in November and how YCF can assist companies in achieving their goals.

Be Prepared, we would like you to bring along your issues, needs and barriers to the workshop, to help you please look at the outcomes Help Shape the Future with regards to skills and some ideas we have come up with. (Link available on the home page at www.ycf.org.uk)

This event is FREE to members and non members half day £75 full day £125.

Come along and Help to Shape the Future of your sustainable workforce to 2020 and beyond
